SAINT AND SINNERS.

Both Were Well Represented at the Y. M. C. C. Maquerade.

Satan waltzed with the merry flower girl; Romeo in real tight and a black velvet doublet whiskered sweet nothings into the oyster like ears of Mrs. O'Gilligan from the fifth ward, and a somber-robed Egyptian priest with tooth pick shoes danced a ho-down with one of the "Three little maids from school."

It was at the Young Men's Quadrille Club masquerade and the maskers were holding high carnival. There were costumes of all sorts and descriptions. Instead of a series of miscellaneous disguises, many familiar characters were well represented.

As a matter of course clowns, flower girls, Topsy's and ducky barbers predominated; but besides these there were on the floor: Maud Miller; Bo Peep; the leap year girl; her long fish pole; Mr. and Mrs. Augenstanzel, from Germany; three little maids from school; a Russian skater and a St. Paul tobacconist; Morning; Night; a squad of milk maids; George Washington; half a dozen German emigrants, U-ta-wa-um; a pilgrim from Jerusalem, and others too numerous to mention. Will Koeblich looked cool and comfortable in a four-sack overcoat and a pair of moose paper trousers; while Bart Clark sustained the reputation of the Home Mastodons, with decided success.

The party did not break up until three o'clock. It was a success in every way and won the old gold prize.

For some years she had been in poor health, but her fatal sickness was only of about two weeks duration. An only daughter—Mrs. E. Parks—survives, two sons having preceded her through the dark valley. The funeral will be held at the home in the second ward at two o'clock on Saturday afternoon.

AN EVENING OF MUSIC.

The Entertainment at E. D. Tallman's Home Last Evening.

At no other home in the city could the company have been entertained that enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Tallman last evening. There were present fully two hundred, and the spacious parlors were well filled.

A violin and cornet duet by Messrs. Brooks and Garthwaite, of the School for the Blind, opened the evening's entertainment. It was followed by a charming solo by Miss Belle Holston, "The Forlaid," which elicited applause both genuine and hearty. Miss Benedict gained many new friends by her rendition of Joseph's "Waltz Brilliant," it being one of the most enjoyable numbers on the programme.

Mrs. J. F. Sweeney was in excellent voice and sang "Maiden Song," with excellent effect. Messrs. Garthwaite and Brooks were called upon for a second instrumental duet, responded with a waltz from Strauss.

There was a very large congregation of people at the First M. E. church last evening to listen to the able discourse of the Rev. Mr. Thomas, of Footville.

FIFTY GOLDEN YEARS.

A Happy Anniversary Celebration in Honor of Mr. and Mrs. Abram Phelps

Old Friends' Unite in the Observance of the Golden Wedding Day.

The pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Phelps, on Lincoln street, was the scene of golden wedding anniversary last evening, and the occasion will long be remembered by those who were present. Invitations were issued informally to some fifty or more old friends and neighbors, and surprises were genuine, and congratulations hearty when the motto tastefully arranged in evergreen and immortelles, revealed the fact that 1838 from 1888 represents the number of years which have come and gone, since Abram Phelps and Marietta Moore were married.

Formal invitations were distributed after the guests were assembled in the shape of a neatly arranged card containing the following inscription at the left: "1838, Abram Phelps—Marietta Moore, married July 1st, Raisinville, Mich., while to the right the announcement, '1888, Mr. and Mrs. Abram Phelps, Janesville, Wis.' made clear the invitation in the center which read, 'Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Phelps desire your presence at the fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of their father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Abram Phelps, Wednesday, February 1st, at seven o'clock, at their residence, 120 Lincoln street. No presents.' The Gazette copies this invitation in full on account of the two little words at the close. They are expressions of good sense.

Mr. and Mrs. Abram Phelps have lived in and near Janesville for the past twenty-five years. During that time they have gained the confidence of a host of friends. While the fifty years of united struggle in the conflicts of life have evidenced to the mark of time, yet the cheerful greeting and cordial welcome extended last evening, indicates that the journey of life has contained more sunshine than shadows, and the two hearts that were united half a century ago have not grown old. Well preserved both physically and mentally, Mr. and Mrs. Phelps commence their fifty-first year with flattering prospects. May they live to celebrate their diamond wedding in 1913.

The company last evening was right royally entertained by Mr. and Mrs. M. Phelps, assisted by their son Frank, who came down from Green Bay, to be present. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Russell Cheney, Col. and Mrs. Z. P. Burdick, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Thistle, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hathorn, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Richards, Mr. and Mrs. E. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Conant, Mr. and Mrs. H. Boyce, Mr. and Mrs. Silas Rayner, Rev. and Mrs. Thomas Walker, Mr. and Mrs. T. DeWitt Peake, Mr. J. G. W. Bosworth, Mrs. C. A. Hunt, Mrs. G. L. Knox, Miss Gessie Macdon, Mr. J. G. Hayner, Mr. A. J. Ray, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Silas, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Clifford, of St. Paul.

After supper was served, the Rev. Mr. Peake was invited to address the company. He said:

I am in the condition of the disciples when they went up to the temple and found the sick man at the gate of the temple beautiful, "silver and gold have I none, but such as I have, give I unto you!" Occasions of this kind are always pleasant, both to the parties who have reached this station in life's journey, and to their intimate friends.

There are three epochs in a man's life: Being born; getting married; and dying. It is well to be born well, it is well to die well, and it is well to marry well. Especially is it so when people have been blessed with as long life and companionship as Father and Mother Phelps.

Fifty years is a long time for two people to live together. They have begun really, to realize the truth of the words "one flesh." The mere form of the service don't marry people. They get married by degrees. It is when adversity begins and the struggle of stemming the tide comes that we find out the love in our hearts.

Fifty years ago in the year 1838, this worthy couple were married. They have shouldered to shoulder, fought the battle of life and enjoyed its richness. They have gathered around the coffin of their son, and mourned the loss of their half. But they have gone on and God has blessed them, and to-day in the beauty and sublimity of their declining years they are in the possession of all their faculties. I congratulate them on this occasion; on the host of friends that have gathered to do homage upon this golden occasion; upon their perfect health at this time of life; and the best wish that can be made is that they may long live to enjoy each other's society, and that these friends may comfort them in their declining years.

In answer Abram Phelps then made a few remarks in behalf of himself and wife: "Friends that are dear to us: You have gathered to commemorate an event that marks the fifty mile post in our life journey. Fifty years ago at Raisinville, Monroe county, Michigan, Marietta Moore and myself, among friends and relatives were married; and we have been 'more or less' since. The service was simple—things were simple in those days—but I was bidding and has been growing more so ever since. We have fought life's battle together. It has not been all sorrow nor all sunshine, we have enjoyed their vicissitudes, and as the years have rolled by, we have learned to look for the silver lining that by experience, we have learned every cloud possesses. Those that were present on the occasion of that marriage service, have with a few exceptions all passed away. Twenty-two years ago we moved to Wisconsin, to a strange land and among strangers, and it is with no little satisfaction that we look around at this evening and see that we are not without friends; and we hope that we may ever retain them.

Mr. and Mrs. Cheney sang with old time popularity two selections and at a seasonable hour the company dispersed with many good wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Phelps.

TESTING THE FIRE ALARM.

The Cause of the Ringing of the Bell This Morning.

The official test of the fire alarm system took place this morning, under the direction of the fire department committee of the common council and Chief Engineer Black, and so far as known, was satisfactory. An alarm was turned in from each box by the chief engineer, and the committee and other members of the council were stationed in the engine houses and the bell tower to note the result. Not a knock or on the bell, everything appearing to be perfect and working to the satisfaction of all. Mr. E. B. Chandler was on the ground superintending the test and explaining the working.

After an alarm had been turned in from the several boxes, Ald. J. B. McLean and James A. Fathers tested the non-interference—the turning in of an alarm from two boxes at the same time. They set their watches together. Ald. McLean went to box 51 and Ald. Fathers to box 31, both pulling at the same time, or as near as possible. Ald. McLean was an instant ahead in letting go of the hook, but box 51 was recorded correctly on the indicator, and sounded correctly on the bell and gongs—nothing being heard but the hook for Ald. Fathers, he getting an instant the advantage, and 31 was recorded and sounded correctly—sounding out 51. Both eldersmen were satisfied that the alarm was non-interfering, and no serious results could follow the pulling of two boxes at the same time.

The people and the fire department appear well pleased with the exhibition this morning, the only point that they find fault with is the bell, that not being large enough to give a good alarm. All are satisfied that the alarm did its work well. The report of the committee will probably not be made public before the meeting of the council Monday evening.

THE SAKOFA BLIZZARD.

NOT AN UNUSUAL WINTER REPORTED—Related Letter From Hon. C. G. Williams.

Hon. C. G. Williams, of Watertown, Dakota, sends the Gazette the following points relating to the recent blizzard and loss of life:

I need not tell a newspaper man that we have had a terrible storm in the northwest. The eastern press will dole out every horror, and it was bad enough, heaven knows. The associate dispatches carried off the first flight of rumors which filled the air like the blizzard. But twenty dead melted down to one and in that proportion reports were true. We have never seen anything like it in forty years. To-day is as bright as a June morning, and I have not seen a soul discouraged about Dakota. Frost gives life and courage, and people say deep snow always brings big crops. Housed in our comfortable homes, and with glowing coal fires, I really think people who are prepared, suffer less in a storm like this, than in a damp chilly climate. Theatres, operas, social entertainments, all flourishing during the blockade. And men go to their business as usual with renewed vigor. Fortunately no lives were lost in this city or county. But throughout the west and southwest many perished.

Truly yours,
C. G. WILLIAMS.

GATES AT THE CROSSINGS.

An Accident that Necessitates the Need of Additional Construction.

The accident which occurred at the Jackson street crossing yesterday morning, was more serious than the item published last evening would indicate. Mr. Woodruff's team was fairly on the crossing when struck by the engine. The horses were picked up bodily and thrown to one side in a snow drift, dragging the closed sleigh in which the driver was confined. How the horses or driver escaped being killed is a mystery. One of the horses was seriously injured.

This class of accidents happen in spite of watchmen who are supposed to be on duty, and no argument is necessary to convince the public that the railroad companies should be compelled to put in gates at all the principal crossings. A flagman can act as easily as he can a flag.

Public sentiment will endorse the council in compelling the companies to supply the gates.

THE EVANSVILLE FIRE.

IT PROVED MORE HORRIBLE THAN WAS AT FIRST SUPPOSED.

Rumors about an outbreak of fire at Evansville, Ind., had been floating for some time, but it was not until last night that the fire broke out. It is possible that the loss on shed, coal freight cars and all will amount to $15,000. Within twenty minutes from the time the watchman in the building discovered signs of fire, the flames had gained a foothold from one end of the four hundred foot structure to the other.

MILTON.

The recent accident here by which Mrs. Webb's son was injured, brings up the question of the danger to the youth of the city who are exposed by the practice of riding on cars. We hear it remarked by people from out of town that they know of no other place, of its size, where so many youngsters can be seen jumping on and off moving trains. The parents are much to blame in this matter, but in our opinion the trainmen are more so; a number of the brakemen and some of the conductors not only allow the boys to get on their trains, but would be justified in making it their duty, as far as possible, to prevent boys from getting on their trains, and prohibiting employees from allowing passengers and children to get on the cars, or to assist in switching trains. We think if the matter is brought to the notice of Superintendent McKenna he will take the necessary steps to put a check on this evil so far as it is in his power to do so. The law, if there be one, touching this matter should be rigidly enforced whenever a complaint is made to the proper officer and in addition railroad employees should be instructed to make complaint in all cases coming under their notice.
